

Revised History

Media Says No Evidence Of Voter Fraud

(And the ballot fairy gets his dates mixed up)

By Al Benson November 12, 2020

I have watched how, in recent days, the mainstream media, aka the prostitute press, has maintained that there is no evidence of vote fraud anywhere in the country and that this is all a Trumpian daydream. What they should have said is that there was no evidence of vote fraud they were interested in seeing or acknowledging. That would have been telling the truth, but the mainstream media really has no interest in truth. That is not what they are about. No way Jose!

Sadly, even Fox News has now fallen into this cesspool. In an article on <https://www.theepochtimes.com> for November 11, the White House press secretary produced 234 pages of affidavits that have alleged election irregularities in just Michigan alone. The article noted “McEnaney appeared alongside Republican National Committee Chair Ronna McDaniel on Fox News’ ‘Hannity,’ where she shared several allegations listed in the affidavits—statements made under penalty of perjury—from Wayne County.” She said, “We keep hearing the drumbeat of ‘where is the evidence?’ Right here, Sean, 234 pages of sworn affidavits, these are real people, real allegations, signed with notaries,” McEnaney said. ‘They’re alleging—this is one county, Wayne County, Michigan—they are saying that there was a batch of ballots where 60 percent had the same signature, They are saying that 35 ballots had no voter record but they were counted anyway, that 50 ballots were run multiple times through a tabulation machine. McEnaney also shared details of another affidavit where a woman alleged that ‘her son was deceased but nevertheless somehow voted.” And just to clarify here, Sean Hannity is not part of Fox News’ descent into the cesspool. Neither are Tucker Carlson, Laura Ingraham, or Lou Dobbs. This is the kind of thing the mainstream media has no interest whatever in. They don’t want to see it or hear it and when it is presented that label it a “conspiracy theory” without any investigation into it. Investigation isn’t their thing—spinning the news to fit the leftist agenda is their thing. The radical left has bought and paid for the mainstream media.

Another article on The Epoch Times, this one for November 10th, shows that the ballot fairy got some of his delivery dates for extra curricula votes a bit confused. The article observed that: “Over 51,000 ballots were marked as returned just a day after they were sent out—an extraordinary speed given the U.S. Postal Service delivery time, while nearly 35,000 were returned on the same day they were mailed out. Another more than 23,000 have a return date earlier than the date sent. More than 9,000 have no sent date.” You have to admit that getting ballots returned the same day or the day after is really speedy service. My mail sure doesn’t travel that fast! In fact, if I send something for three-day delivery, with a tracking number, it often takes five days to get to its destination. And those ballots that got there a day earlier than the date sent—would you call that “service in anticipation?” Seems as if the Ballot Fairy for Biden was in such a hurry to make sure his candidate had all the votes needed to defeat Trump that he messed up on his dating schedules for their arrival. Of course, the mainstream media will be quick to assure you that none of this happened, but then, they have no interest in seeing the affidavits alleging that it did. They deny these exist.

News sources today tell us that Trump has now won Alaska and North Carolina. That should give Trump 232 electoral votes, which the MSM will probably forget to mention in the hope you don’t notice. And, if you subtract from Biden’s wished for tally the six states where votes are either still being counted or lawsuits have been filed alleging vote fraud that brings Biden's electoral vote down to 227. So, like the man says "It ain't over 'til it's over."

And I will leave you with an interesting question. Should Biden somehow manage to pull this vote charade off and get to be president, you have to know he will not stay there for long. He doesn't have that much mental capacity anymore and Harris will end up being president. If that happens, is Harris qualified to hold the office of president? Enquiring minds should check out this possibility.