

Revised History

Biden's War on American Automobile Owners

By Al Benson May 21st, 2022

On 5/20 someone sent me an article from <https://theconservativetreehouse.com> about Joe Biden's (really Barack Obama's) war against American car owners. By now it is no secret that Biden's time as "president" is really Obama's third term, and all Joe Biden is doing there is acting as Obama's mouthpiece to make Obama's third term look like Biden's first term.

At any rate, the Conservative Tree House article observed that: "During a Senate Energy Committee hearing, Alaska Senator Dan Sullivan gives a list of actions taken by the Biden administration in the past three weeks to block U.S. oil production." You read that right—the Biden/Obama regime is trying to block oil production. And people wonder why their gas prices are so high!

The article continues: "Energy Secretary Jennifer Granholm, during the hearing, said the Biden administration was doing everything possible to increase oil production and supply. Senator Sullivan quoted the actions of the Biden administration in the last three weeks which are exactly the opposite of the Energy Secretary's claims." In other words, Ms. Granholm was being slightly less than candid in her remarks.

The article also noted that: "This is another example of false pretenses by Biden's administration. The Interior Department is filled with radical climate change ideologues who are working fervently to undermine U.S. energy policy." And taking note of Obama's part in all this, the article wryly observed that: "Obama implanted these people in the bureaucracy of government. They are now akin to terror cells" working to destroy what is left of the country. They are overtly aware of what they are engaged in, and they mostly operate independently.

Our present energy crisis, with its resultant high gas prices, is really Obama's plan for the country. However, Biden will get the dubious "credit" for implementing it. I wonder if he is even astute enough at this point to be aware of what that will do to him and his already shaky reputation. Or if he even has sense enough left to care. He is Obama's ultimate patsy in every sense of the word.