

Revised History

Antifa, BLM, And WAR

By Al Benson Jr., August 3rd, 2022

Today, we have militant leftist pressure groups terrorizing many of our cities. The conservatives don't like them. The Democrat socialists love and defend their activities and the prostitute press continues to give them a pass as they loot and burn cities. Antifa claims to be "anti-fascist", but their actions are pure fascism. Another such group is BLM, with its "trained Marxist" leadership. But all this is not new. The Illuminists (Illuminati) have been trying to tear down our system of government and have been at work on that for well over 200 years. They used similar tactics in the years before the War of Northern Aggression. Back then they made use of a group called "The Wide-Awake Republicans, WAR.

Historian and author Arthur R. Thompson has observed: "The problem was that the people in both sections (North and South) were standing on quicksand and instead of their leadership helping to pull them out, they did the opposite." Someone was preparing both Northerners and Southerners for a war they did not need to fight.

Mr. Thompson noted: "There was a movement within the Republican Party to form militias to participate in the coming war. They were known as the Wide-Awake Republicans. While they were not overt in their military training, they were organized more as shock troops for the party—their acronym said it all; WAR...The WAR also had a secret society attached to it, which Allan Pinkerton put in motion, that ran the organization. It used the Eye of Horus—which was also the symbol of Pinkerton's detective agency, the All-Seeing Eye...The eye was used on the certificates issued by WAR clubs to certify memberships and on their banners used in parades. In addition, both on Wide Awake and Republican banners and posters, the French revolutionary flag far too often on one side with the U.S. flag on the other and the Eye of Horus in between...the guiding light behind the scenes was Pinkerton who used the Eye as his logo for his detective agency. The difference in the Wide Awakes and previous campaign organizations was the use of a military motif for the group. This had never been done before in the history of American campaigning; militant, yes, but not military by wearing uniforms or in their intent. One needs to remember the acronym of the Wide-Awake Republicans; WAR." And their use of the French revolutionary flag might have shown those with discernment as to where they were really coming from. Like Antifa and BLM, they were revolutionaries!

Mr. Thompson told us that the "New York Herald" estimated nationally there were 400,000 WAR members in 1860. If that is accurate, we should be asking why we never heard of this group. My "history" books never mentioned them. Did any of yours? Mr. Thompson observed that "The Wide Awakes had become the street soldiers of revolution. With the outbreak of hostilities, it is safe to say that without the WAR members in the St. Louis area, Missouri would have linked up with the Confederacy...As we said, the WAR movement was so large that is remarkable that the average history student of today has never heard of them...thus they are rarely, if ever, mentioned in school texts."

If you have read this far, do you begin to understand that our history books have been tampered with—sanitized—so our young folks today do not know much of what really happened. To mention some of this would raise questions among serious students and WAR's intent as "the street soldiers of revolution". So better for the Establishment Illuminists if all this is just ignored so students will hardly be aware of it all.

But, the acronym, WAR, was a subtle message to astute Southerners that with WAR, "when we get into positions of power, this is what the South can expect!" The War of Northern Aggression started way before Fort Sumter. They just haven't bothered to tell us all this. The Illuminists running our education system along with everything else in government desire to see our kids fat and ignorant and apathetic. That way they don't learn to resist tyranny.