

Revised History

Has Sleepy Joe Outlived His Usefulness?

By Al Benson Jr., July 16th, 2022

I noted that a New York Times editorial has called for Biden's departure. Considering that this leftist bastion in what passes for the news media has done this you have to wonder what's going on. Has the far left finally decided that Biden, with his continuous gaffes and his obvious cognitive decline has outlived his usefulness to them?

If they decide that Biden can't cut the mustard anymore, who will they replace him with? It would not seem that the almost invisible Comrade Kamala can do much better, given her lackluster performance as "border czar." It almost seems like they've been keeping her out of sight of late because they know she can't do much of anything except giggle when she gets in the public view—something she can't seem to control no matter how grave the subject at hand might be.

So, the Deep State operatives have got a real pair of losers on their hands, and you must wonder what they will do with this pair. Up to now, Biden has been Obama's front man to promote Obama's agenda (and the agenda of those behind Obama). So, who do they get if Biden lacks the capacity to keep on keeping on as he seems to be doing? There are those who feel that the editorial in the NYT calling for Biden's departure was a sign that the left was done with him, that they had gotten all they could out of him, and therefore, he was expendable.

As if to expand on that theory, there was an article on the "Political Theater" section of <http://www.lewrockwell.com> for July 13th which I will quote from, by Mark Crispin Miller. The article, shocking in its implications, said: "Suppose the plan is to assassinate Joe Biden, and blame it on a 'far right' patsy... Then they can go after everybody's guns, and cancel the election—a fitting culmination of the fascist rollout that began in Dallas on 11/22/63. Those who just laugh off this scenario because it comes from Alex Jones, are all too likely not to question it, should it come true. In any case, those of us who know enough to see it as entirely possible should spread the word, so that it doesn't happen. Alex Jones announced today what he understands the plan for Biden will be in the wake of the NYT editorial calling for his departure."

He continued: "He said in the next 120 days the plan is to make him wet and blame the killing on a right wing extremist. Martial law will cancel the fall elections and gun confiscation will be implemented... He said they clearly want him out now if the NYT is calling for it, but want it to take place when they want it to take place so they can use it for their agenda. It was always their intention to make him the fall guy, but his departure will be at their discretion for their purposes. Personally, I knew this was in the works because there is no way they would allow the elections to take place this fall if they could stop it..."

My first thought about the election this fall was "Why don't they just steal this one like they did in 2020" but then I don't think like a leftist. They must know they will get shellacked in anywhere near an honest election, so they may decide to do it this way to do what the leftists do so well—kill two birds with one stone—cancel the election and remove Biden both in one fell swoop.

I would not have thought so much of this had it not been on Lew Rockwell's site. Lew doesn't put flaky stuff up, so I think this might just be a possible scenario for the left and it would be so very typical of the way they operate. Anyway, keep your eyes open.